9 Oil Tests Under Way or Planned in Hempstead Co.

75,000 Acres Under Lease for Wildcat Operations in County

SURROUNDING CITY

Tests Either Side of Fulton, Near Hope, Shover, Rocky Mound

Approximately 75,000 acres of land in Hempstead county is under lease and nine oil tests are planned within the next several months, a survey of wildcat oil well operations showed Thursday.

Nearest to a test is the Buffalo Oil company's No. 1 Lafferty, nine miles south of Hope. Operations are shut down at present, awaiting the arrival of casing. A test will not be made for several days.

The survey made by The Star Thursday showed:

The May-Eason No. 2 in section 34-12-27, five miles northwest of Fulton, has set surface casing and has started two-shift drilling.

The Imperial Oil & Gas company is moving in on its location three and a half miles northeast of Fulton in section 35-12-26. This organization has a new 122-foot steel derrick that is being put together. A heavy unit type rig will be used.

More acreage is being assembled by the Imperial concern, centering on section 1-13-25, which joins the city limits of Hope near the home of R. C. McElree.

New May & Eason Test

May and Eason, with Brook Shults, have almost completed an acreage block two and a half miles southwest of Fulton, centering around 34-13-26.

Munn Brothers block in section 8-14-25. This block is about six miles southwest of Hope, extends to Red river on the west and to the county line on the south.

W. E. Stewart of Tyler, Texas, has made a location in 31-12-23, four miles east of Hope. This is known as the Rocky Mound block. A steel derrick is to be erected the latter part of this week.

The Stewart test is to be spudded in not later than September 15, and will drill to a depth of 5,000 feet if necessary, reliable reports said.

Tests for Shover

G. P. Birdwell, also of Tyler, Texas, is assembling an acreage block around the Shover Springs area which extends west to the Hope Fulton road.

The Williver Oil firm of Oklahoma is assembling a block east of Shover Springs. Both Birdwell and Williver are contracting with land owners to drill tests within the next 90 days or sooner if blocks are assembled.

The Star's informant pointed out two reasons for increased oil activities in Hempstead county.

First, because of the many seismograph tests in the county the past 12 months; and second because wells in Arkansas are allowed to produce more oil than those in Texas and Louisiana.

11-Foot Alligator Caught Here Alive

Prescott Sportsmen Make Record Catch for Season in Red Lake

An alligator measuring 11 feet in length was taken alive from Red Lake below Fulton by a group of Prescott sportsmen.

Their names were not learned here, nor was it learned what they intended to do with the alligator.

Witnessing the catch were Earl Barham, game warden, former Mayor Ruff Boyett and A. C. Monts of Hope.

The alligator is believed to be the largest taken from the lake in several months.

THREAT TO EUROPE

Losers in Spanish Conflict May Decide to Force Intervention

BEHOBIE, France.—(Copyright Associated Press)—A spearhead of Moors pointed out the final phase of the Spanish civil war most menacing to the peace of Europe, informed observers agreed Thursday.

There is a growing indication—the threat of dynamiting the rebels held in the Alcazar at Toledo, and the reported death of hostages at Irún—that no mercy is expected by one group or the other at the hands of the victor.

Therefore the losers, diplomatic circles pointed out, may choose to invite foreign intervention as the lesser of two evils.

BIRIATOU, French-Spanish Frontier.—Driven back into the debris-littered streets of Irún, government forces Wednesday night gave ground before a Fascist onslaught that by daylight had driven into the suburb of Behobia.

The rebels, their flag planted atop Mount Turia—last government stronghold outside Irún—surged over the crest and leaped into the last government trench barring the way to Irún. Residents of Behobia stampeded through the streets, fleeing before the attackers to the French frontier.

Retreating loyalist infantrymen struggled back into Behobia and were rallied by the leaders to make one last stand against the rebel's otherwise clear path into Irún. The government positions at La Punched and San Editor The Star: It is observed that the city, through its Parks Commission, has had a barrier built by the WPA around the playground. That's fine. Now why can't they get some seats and tables built? At band concerts there is no place to sit except in cars—and, with fine picnic grounds, no tables.

350 Carloads of Melons Shipped Thus Far in 1936

150 Cars Are Sent by Rail, and 200 Carloads Handled by Truck

SEASON IS "FAIR"

Largest Melon to Date Is O. D. Middlebrooks', Weighing 137 Pounds

With the watermelon season growing to a close, the largest melon reported in Hope this year was brought in by O. D. Middlebrooks of Patmos, who last season produced the world's largest melon, a 195-pounder that was expressed to Dick Powell of Hollywood.

This year's largest so far, weighed 137 pounds. It was brought to Hope several days ago and was purchased by a Little Rock insurance agent who shipped it to his firm at Boston, Mass.

The melon, a Triumph variety brought $25.25 delivered at Boston. A survey made Thursday by The Star showed that approximately 350 car loads left Hempstead county this year. About 150 cars of melons were shipped by freight.

About 200 carloads were trucked out, buyers in Hope estimated. The season as a whole was summed up by buyers as only "fair," pointing out that a late drought choked off the growth of melons and also damaged the quality to some extent.

The highest price paid by Hope buyers was 90 cents per hundred pounds. That price was paid for Tom Watson melons, produced early in the season.

Most of the late melons are Triumph variety, the large round melon. The Tom Watson is a longer melon and is less in diameter.

Shipping season for the Triumph variety is almost over, buyers said here.

First Scrimmage Is Planned Friday

Football Equipment Issued to 35 Prospective Hope Players

The Hope High School football team will be sent through its first scrimmage session Friday afternoon. Coach Roy Hammons said in issuing head-gears and shoulder-pads to approximately 35 candidates.

Thursday afternoon was to be spent in practicing eight plays. Additional punting, passing and blocking is also on schedule for Thursday.

The coach announced that practically all box seats for the season had been sold. He said that he was planning a reserve section of 75 seats near the press box.

This section is near mid-field. The coach said that he would await reaction from this announcement before a decision was definitely announced.

Only 126 Pounds!--Maybe This Dark Cloud Held Melon Back

HERE's another of the 12 especially posed watermelon pictures made by The Star last Friday on the white sand at the Rocky Mound road intersection.

The Star's negatives are at Shipley's studio, South Walnut street, where anyone interested in publicity promotion for Hempstead county's most famous product may obtain original prints.

"cast" of five small negro boys whom The Star took to Rocky Mound along with a 126-pound watermelon from Monts Seed store.

A. C. Monts had a price tag of $10 on the melon—and if the hands of The Star staff had slipped it would have been a $10 crash. But the pictures and the melon got back home all right.

C. C. Lewis, Aroused by Garage Noise, Pretends He Has Revolver

C. C. Lewis, general manager of the Geo. W. Robison department stores, was aroused from bed at 2 a. m. Thursday when he heard a noise in his garage on South Pine street.

On investigation he discovered a robber leaving with a handful of car tools. From his back porch he commanded the robber to "drop those and get your hands in the air."

The prowler, believing that he was "covered" with a six-shooter, did not hesitate.

While Mrs. Lewis telephoned officers in their pigment.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(Special)—What part of this country needs a supply of new typewriters. Mine's in drydock getting the barnacles scraped off and the grasshoppers scared away and the one they let me have for a few days must be the one Jonah used when he got the inside story of the whale.

There are still sections of the country where the drought holds on and it begins to look as if some of the speakers in the national campaign may have to tote their own water and make up their own mud if they expect to do any slinging, or resort to dust.

The toucan, a bird of the tropics, has feathers of metallic tints. Some of its feathers actually contain copper in their pigment.

White Teachers to Meet at 10 a. m. Saturday—Negroes at 1:30 p. m.

School teachers of Hempstead county are urged to attend the Teachers' Institute in Hope next Saturday, September 5. County School Examiner E. E. Austin said Thursday.

The meeting for white teachers will be held at 10 a. m. in Hope High School building.

The meeting for negro teachers will be held that afternoon in Yenger school, starting at 1:30 o'clock.

All persons interested in the meetings are also welcome to attend, Mr. Austin said.

Merrill, Richman Are Forced Down Safely in Wales

Americans Miss London Airdrome Only 175 Miles on Atlantic Hop

PLANE UNDAMAGED

Singing Stage Star Operates Radio on Long Flight Over Water

CROYDON, AIRDROME, England.—(AP)—The Croydon communications office announced officially Thursday that the American fliers Merrill and Richman made a safe forced landing at Llanwneelyn, Carmarthenshire, South Wales.

The communications office, stated that Merrill telephoned Croydon, reporting that his trans-Atlantic plane Lady of Peace had landed in a field, that the fliers were unhurt and the machine undamaged.

The aviators in their flight from New York to the Irish coast came down approximately 175 miles from their Croydon goal.

They Take Off

NEW YORK.—(AP)—After missing disaster by inches on their take-off, Dick Merrill and Harry Richman flew into fog and rainstorms Wednesday night on the first leg of a projected round-trip flight between New York and London.

Merrill and Richman radioed to Eastern Air Lines here at 11 p. m. that their plane was 1,501 miles out from Brooklyn. That left them 2,046 miles to go to Croydon airport.

They had only one hour and 10 minutes of darkness left at that hour, because they were flying toward the sun.

"Dick and I are going to eat a sandwich. All O. K.," said the message signed by Richman.

A sudden gust of wind nearly upset the heavily loaded monoplane as it sped down the long concrete runway at Floyd Bennett field near Merrill, a veteran airmail and transport pilot, brought it back to an even keel and lifted it skyward.

Flagmen stationed at the far end of the field reported that Merrill and Richman were grinning broadly as the Lady Peace, loaded with three tons of fuel, took off.

Richman earlier had said: "We don't care about the dirty weather ahead. We have the winds we need."

Richman, singing star of the stage and screen, operated the ship's two-way radio. Half an hour after the take-off he reported they were making 150 miles an hour and that "everything is swell."

Make Final Plea for Draper's Life

Attorney in 11th Hour Move to Save Man Condemned Friday

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Attorney H. A. Tucker, of Berryville, came to Little Rock Thursday to plead with Governor Futrell for the life of Ayliff Draper, 26, condemned to die at dawn Friday with Roy House, 22, for a Garland county murder.

Draper's wife, father, brothers and sisters passed through Little Rock in a truck Thursday on the way from their home at Peary to Tucker Prison Farm.

To Abandon Prison on Devil's Island

Notorious French Penal Colony Scheduled to Be Abolished

PARIS, France.—France's colony in French Guiana with its notorious Devil's Island now seems definitely doomed. In an interview which the minister of colonies and the minister of justice gave the Paris Soir Wednesday they said that a bill will be proposed and undoubtedly passed at the next parliamentary session to suppress it if a judicial commission of inquiry would so recommend.

The commission would be sent immediately and there seems little doubt they would ask suppression of the institution which the French realize has given their penal system a bad name the world over.

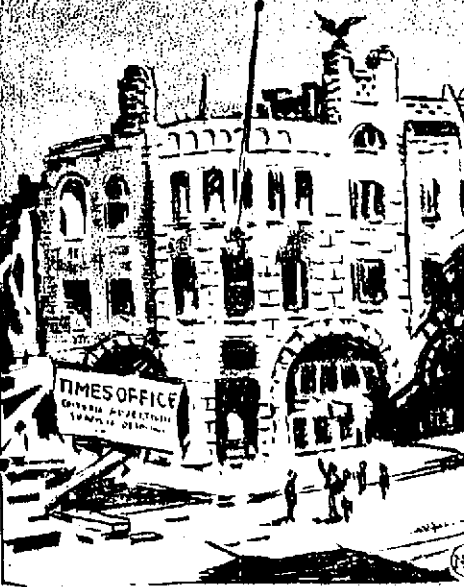

No more prisoners will be sent to Guiana pending passage of the bill and the terrible prison ship "La Martinique" will make no trips with her pitiable cargo.

Fourth of Six Daily Sketch Strips Telling—

The Story of Organized Labor

Story by Willis Thorton
Sketches by Ed Gunder

A textile strike in Lawrence, Mass., in 1912, was quickly and brilliantly won by the I. W. W., which threatened for a time to set up "dual unionism," that is, unions competing with each other for the same members on a national scale. The problem of "dual unionism" and of overlapping jurisdiction has not yet been solved, being the source of many disputes.

Organization of employers against unionization reached its highest point between 1910 and 1920, and was given great impetus by the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building by the McNamara brothers, which cost 21 lives and solidified many employers against labor.

But the trend toward organization and a better break for labor was not to be resisted. In 1913, William B. Wilson took his place in the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson as the first secretary of labor, and direct government interest in labor problems has grown ever since.

The railway brotherhoods had grown powerful without joining any general federation of labor, and in 1916 demanded passage of the Adamson eight-hour law. With brotherhood officials in the gallery, strike orders in their pockets, Congress passed the law, which Wilson signed. It was outstanding in a long series of legislative triumphs for labor.

"The day will bring some lovely thing—
I say it over each new dawn:
Some day, adventurous thing to hold
Against my heart when it is gone;
And so I rise and go to meet
The day with wings upon my feet.
I come upon it unaware.
Some sudden beauty without name,
A snatch of song, a breath of pine,
A poem lit with golden flame;
High tangled bird notes keenly thinned
Like flying colors on the wind.
No day has ever failed me quite:
Before the greyest day is done
I find some misty, purple bloom
Or a late line of crimson sun.
Each night, I pause, remembering
Some gay, adventurous, lovely thing.

Mahony Quits in Hospital Argument

Asserts Governor "Fired" Business Manager Without Just Cause

EL DORADO, Ark.—Resignation of Joe K. Mahony, El Dorado lawyer, as chairman of the board of the State hospital, was due to action of Governor Futrell in discharging Cliff Markham of Paragould, the governor's home town, as manager of the hospital over the protest of the Hospital Board.

Mr. Mahony in a statement here Wednesday night declared that his usefulness as a member of the hospital board had come to an end when the governor, without regard for the opinion of the board, discharged a man employed by the board who had a perfect record for efficiency.

Mr. Markham had served as manager of the hospital for 16 months. Mr. Mahony's position on the board was filled by the appointment of J. O. E. Beck, planter of Hughes, Mr. Mahony issued the following statement:

"The State Hospital Board after due investigation employed Mr. Cliff Markham 16 months ago. His services have been entirely satisfactory and his record was perfect and the governor admitted it. His services have been entirely satisfactory to the board. Some weeks ago Governor Futrell asked the board to discharge Mr. Markham. This we declined to do because there was no cause. The governor then discharged him without assigning any cause.

"The statutes give the governor the right to discharge the business manager for cause. I thought the governor's action was based on personal, political reasons. If the governor is going to discharge men employed by the State Hospital Board without regard for their opinion in the matter, I feel my usefulness on the board is at an end. I resigned. The governor accepted. There are no hard feelings on my part and I hope this ends the matter."

Desperate Battle

Marcel on the outskirts of Iron were riddled by rebel machine and field batteries.

Fleeing noncombatants from the Spanish Bohobin rushed in panic across the bridge to the French town Bohobin across the Bidassoa river.

The entire Iron sector was peopled only by fighting men, government-shackled hostages, and the hapless families of those believed to have rebel sympathies.

Road Dynamited

Government forces dynamited the road leading into Iron and destroyed mobile equipment which they were unable to take with them in the retreat.

A hail of bullets swept the road to Birlatou on the French side of the Bidassoa river, as French authorities hastily doubled the number of frontier guards. Unable safely to use the roads—even on the French side of the river—refugees had to pick their way along rough mountain passes to flee from the range of the rifles cracking across the river.

The day's fighting was a final desperate effort by the rebel besiegers of Iron to drive the defenders from their last entrenchments outside the city. Driving over the hills, the rebels pushed the government forces ever back toward Iron.

One detachment of rebels fanned out around the custom house where 15 government machine-guns were holding out in a last savage attempt to halt the advance.

Final break-up of the government lines was accomplished when a body of insurgents charged to the top of Mount Turiarte, where a government redoubt had held off repeated assaults for three days. Twenty rebels triumphantly planted their standard atop the crest as their comrades in forward lines cheered. Government field pieces trained on the rebel flag and finally shot it away, but the fascists held their newly-won positions.

Rebels employed armored cars in the assault, peppering government positions opposing their advance. The battle raged all day, although the start was delayed by a pull fog.

Hostages Chained in Iron
The fate of those remaining in Iron was not known. Hostages were chained in exposed places where they would be most likely to be slaughtered by the guns of their own compatriots.

Buildings and walls could be seen blasted into bits throughout the day but how many men, women or children were crushed beneath their wreckage could not be ascertained, so great was the confusion.

Bailey Cuts Off Drain on Pensions

Ends Diversion of $300,000 to Charities and Institutions

LITTLE ROCK—Within an hour after a brief conference of federal and state officials on drought relief Tuesday, Attorney General Carl E. Bailey wrote an opinion to serve as basis in making available an additional $300,000 annually for the state welfare fund.

The attorney general held that the welfare fund (for old age pensions and aid to the blind, dependent children and unemployables) should be relieved of the drain of $300,000 a year which has been transferred from it to the charities fund for maintenance of state institutions.

His opinion was embodied in a letter to state Comptroller Griffin Smith, who had suggested the transfer in July. The attorney general advised the comptroller to proceed in the method that he had outlined.

During the conference preceding issuance of the opinion Governor Futrell, who was up to a week ago had considered calling a special session of the legislature to make available more money for the welfare fund, told Mr. Bailey: "I don't agree with your construction of the law, but I won't oppose you."

It was explained that in the future the charities fund will obtain its $300,000 from general revenue.

The state was represented at the conference by the governor, Mr. Bailey, Mr. Smith, Welfare Commissioner C. H. Andrews and the Executive Committee of the Public Welfare Commission. Senator Joe T. Robinson and state WPA Administrator Floyd Sharp were federal officials present. The meeting was held in the governor's reception room.

To Check Relief Applicants

The Welfare Committee voted to take over from the WPA the task of checking applicants for work relief in the drought counties. Mr. Sharp explained that his organization has placed 109 administrative employees in the field to handle applications for the county welfare boards, but that it had no money to pay them. To date, he said, the situation had been met by a bit of juggling, but higher officials knew all about it. However, he said that sort of thing could not be continued indefinitely.

Expense of keeping the 109 workers in the field, salaries and transportation, is $6,040 a month. The committee took over the payment of that expense with the understanding that it should come from the welfare fund.

Little Rock spent awhile at the same place.

Mrs. R. P. Fuller and Mrs. Otis Fuller and little son, James Robert, spent Monday with Mrs. Troy Greenlee of Green Laseter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Beckworth and family of Shover Springs spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Otis Fuller and attended church at this place.

President to Start Power Humming

Pressing of a button by President Roosevelt in Washington, 3000 miles away, on Sept. 11, starting power generation at Boulder Dam, will be the climaxing act in an epic of science and toil which has given man mastery of the turbulent Colorado river. Engineers long had dreamed of subjugating the mighty stream, which roared untrammelled through its canyons, its vast potential power wasted, its waters a menace to thickly settled valleys in flood season. Years passed before this magnificent conception took shape. Finally, Black Canyon, shown above in its primeval majesty, was chosen as the dam site. Through tortuous legislative channels the plan moved. At last, on June 3, 1933, construction work began on the hydroelectric and flood control project, with its allied works, was to rise at a cost of $165,000,000.

Twelve mammoth valves in the face of Boulder Dam will open when the president touches the button that officially starts power generation, releasing a dozen great man-made Niagaras. The photo shows the outlets on the Nevada side. Meeting their flow in midstream to make a spectacular double cataract will be the water which is freed through the valves on the Arizona side. Gushing forth of the waters will be the high point in the impressive ceremonies which will mark the event. With the huge generating plant in operation, lights will glow and machines will hum in Los Angeles, 270 miles away. The power line which will serve the California district will carry the biggest electrical load ever transported—275,000 volts. And below the reservoir 2,000,000 acres of land await the benefits of irrigation.

For three years more than 4000 men wrought mightily and dangerously at their colossal task, rearing the engineering marvel shown above. Already Boulder Dam and the area around it have become the mecca for thousands of sightseers weekly, the cars of some of the many tourists being shown here parked on the dam crest. More than 100 workers gave their lives that the gigantic barrier might be completed. Nine million tons of rock were excavated and 4,000,000 cubic yards of concrete poured into the hole thus made. Reinforcing the concrete, 35,000 tons of steel were used and mixed with the 5,000,000 barrels of cement were 165,000 carloads of sand and gravel. Back of the dam, Lake Mendocino, containing enough water to flood the state of Connecticut to a depth of 10 feet, has been filling this summer, forming a scenic marvel to a depth of 10 feet, has been filling this summer.

Fulton Market Falls Into River

View showing the twisted mass of timbers after a 125-foot section of the Fulton Fish Market, for many years a landmark of the lower Manhattan waterfront, collapsed into the waters of the East River. This is the place where former Gov. Al E. Smith worked as a young man.

'Old Friends' Meet Again as Quins Greet Movie Co-Stars

After their arrival at the Dionne nursery to begin work on the babies' new picture, Jean Hersholt and Dorothy Peterson each seemed to be an object of the quins' affection. While Miss Peterson has her hands (or rather arms) full greeting two of her little fellow thespians, another flirts outrageously with Actor Hersholt, while her sister apparently taunts her. And a fifth of the talented Dionnes, the baby at right, seems to have a picture all of her own.

The quintuplets' new picture, tentatively titled "Reunion," made possible this very joyful reunion in the Dionne nursery. In California to work with the babies, Jean Hersholt and Dorothy Peterson, of "Country Doctor" fame, smile their happiness.

Hand on hip, this Miss Dionne apparently is dashing off a pose from her repertoire, just to show her old film friends that she's not out of practice. And Dorothy Peterson and Jean Hersholt, featured with the quins in their new picture, look on smilingly.

Ay, There's the Rub—That Shows How Quins Love One Another!

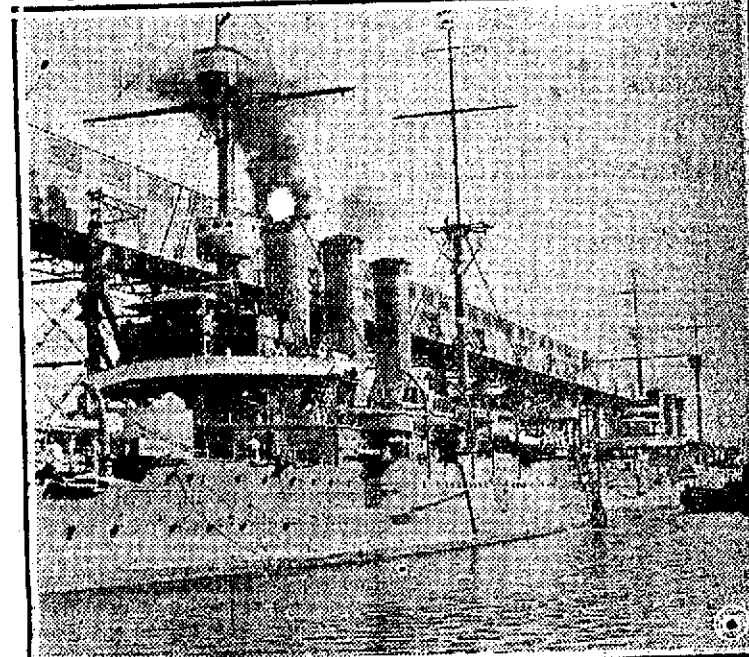

It's just an old quins custom that reveals at a glance the affection of one Dionne for another, but the young ladies just never seem to tire of rubbing noses. And, judging from the enthusiastic way in which Emilie is going about it, she probably is planning mischievously to plant a big, sisterly kiss right on Yvonne's laughing lips.

Win Bitter Senate Primary Fights

Senator James F. Byrnes Senator Pat Harrison

Two powerful supporters of the New Deal, Democratic wheelhorses in the U. S. Senate, were winners in bitter primary battles, when Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi and Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina defeated their opponents. Harrison won by a large majority over ex-Gov. Martin S. Connor, who was backed by Harrison's Senate colleague, T. G. Bilbo. Byrnes defeated two rivals easily, his vote being nearly seven times that of the combined totals of his opponents. Harrison has been in the House and Senate for 26 years; Byrnes has served in Congress for 20 years.

BEAUTY AND THE BASS

If Geraldine Brown's 27-pound striped bass doesn't win first prize in the Rio Vista, Calif., fishing derby, maybe the judges will give her a trophy on her own merits. For while the striped is a beauty, so is Geraldine. She is one of some 50,000 anglers entered in bass derbies staged all over California when the fish make their appearance in coastal waters.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—Three factors seem to stand out among current campaign developments:

1. Gov. Alf M. Landon's trip into the east is likely to be a crucial test of his ability to woo voters.
 2. President Roosevelt's words and action, described officially as "non-political," are nearly all political, in both effect and intent.
 3. The Lemke candidacy takes on an increasingly anti-Roosevelt aspect, again, in both effect and intent, with a definite possibility that it may throw the election to Landon in case there is a close finish in the electoral college.
- Concern over the Landon campaign is being expressed by some of the governor's best friends, who think he has been the victim of bad advice and has failed to present himself to the public as the able and honest man they believe he is.
- Well aware that the Republicans' chief danger now is the possibility that Democrats may convince many previously undecided voters that Landon is not "big enough" for the White House, the governor's supporters feel that his failure to "sell himself" on the eastern trip would be likely to be the turning point of the campaign.
- Want Landon to "Speak Out?" Landon, they explain, has done himself an injustice through his failure to present a strong, constructive program of his own instead of relying on popular reaction against Roosevelt to elect him.
- If the governor were to speak out publicly with the frankness he uses in private conversation, they insist, he would be a stronger candidate.

Chairman John Hamilton and the wealthy eastern Republicans who work closely with him are blamed for the campaign strategy to date. There is a chance, however, that Landon has by now decided to change tactics and speak both more forthrightly and less conservatively.

His friends point out that he is shrewd and need not be expected to follow any line of campaign which he feels isn't producing the best possible results.

The theory of Hamilton and the eastern big fellows in keeping Landon under wraps is that anti-New Deal reaction to date, plus a high-powered and expensive campaign to scare voters away from the New Deal, will be enough to win the day.

Much may depend on the effectiveness of that campaign, which is getting under way, although Landon's liberal friends think it's more important that he make a strong appeal to many middle-of-the-road or mildly liberal voters who haven't yet made up their minds.

"No Politics" Pretense Is Thin Meanwhile, the White House pretense that Roosevelt's movements and words are "non-political" may be smart stuff, but easy to see through. Anyone who knows politics can tell, without being a mind reader that the president's mind is constantly on the campaign.

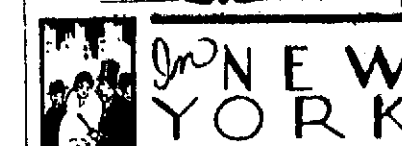

It isn't hard to believe that his announced intention to stick around the east so as to be close to the threaten-

Colonel Roosevelt to Visit Arkansas

Republican to Speak at Ft. Smith, Little Rock, Pine Bluff and Spa

PINE BLUFF, Ark.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. will spend two days in Arkansas next month speaking in behalf of the Republican national campaign. Robert A. Zebold, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, announced here Wednesday night.

Zebold said that the Republican National Committee had allotted October 11 and 12 of Mr. Roosevelt's time to Arkansas. It is planned to have him speak in Fort Smith, Little Rock, Pine Bluff, Hot Springs and possibly one or two other cities.

NEW YORK.—The stranger in our midst is Mr. John Adams of Fredericksburg, Va., alias Prince Michael Alexander Dmitri Obolski Romanoff of St. Petersburg, Russia, alias Harry Ferguson of Hillsboro, Ill. Or, as the bogus nobleman is best known, "Prince Mike" of Broadway.

Indeed, the Prince has been so conspicuously absent from front pages and gossip columns and the smarter barrooms that he condescends to visit in the Fifties. There have been tales lately of his having served as a Foreign Legion expert in Hollywood, of his having stowed away in a dog kennel on a trans-Atlantic steamer, or of his having swum away from the detention pen of Ellis Island.

He has been unusually quiet. He has not lectured on the history of aristocratic Russia to ladies' clubs nor has he recently asked the police for protection from local Bolsheviks. Nor has he appeared in the drawing rooms of blue ribbon dowagers with a nobleman's sash across his bosom. And there has been no further talk of deporting him.

Landed on Farm But he was sitting at Jack & Charlie's oasis, "Twenty-one," the other day sipping a tall gin concoction as though he wasn't used to it and he seemed a little shaky when anyone called him "Mike." And he wouldn't allow his table companions to pay for the drink. (He didn't pay for it either. It was on the house.)

For "Prince Mike" has come back to us temporarily as John Adams, a country gentleman from Fredericksburg, Va., where he raised wheat and corn and soy beans, dined his top hat and bedemanded starched shirt for overalls, and blended his nobility with the southern aristocracy. He has a pair of calloused mitts to show for it.

Eighteen months have passed since the Prince hastily took up his abode after his friends were embarrassed by a detective agency investigating extramarital relations. As John Adams, he assumed the management of a farm in the Rappahannock Valley and toyed with agriculture. Which is something Prince Mike's adopted ancestors, the Romanoffs, never cared about.

But devil take the hindmost. In Fredericksburg, the Prince is John Adams, a squire over 60 acres of fertile country. At Jack & Charlie's he is Michael Alexander Dmitri Obolski of a mighty royal dynasty, suave and svelte and entitled to a highball for his company. How, then, did the Prince like the outdoor drudgery this other fellow John Adams was up to.

Firm Responder "Well, as I was saying the other day," the Prince declaimed in the stentorian manner, "it is wonderful to return to the soil. It is the same spirit displayed by the people who, harassed by worldly difficulties and woe, secluded themselves in the cloisters. It is surcease for the soul. For my part, up with the larks and in the field until late at night. There were divers crops. As for the soy beans, they were taller, I should estimate, than his highball glaws."

The Prince paused, meditated his remarks, then took another swig of Jack & Charlie's highly reputable firewater. Another party came into the room, noticed the pseudo-descendant of the Romanoffs and swarmed around. "My dears," the stentorian voice rolled off. "I'll have you know that the name is John Adams."

The Prince, unfortunately, isn't ing European situation is so much stage play. It looks, in fact, just like one more act in the program of dramatization of Roosevelt as a great statesman, ever alert, qualified to handle great international problems and intent on keeping us out of war.

Roosevelt's visit to the governor-general of Canada, his use of French in a speech, his constantly expressed interest in affairs abroad, and his pointed Chautauqua speech may be similarly considered.

The fact that modern communication and facilities at the disposal of a president allow him to keep in as close touch with the Spanish rebellion from St. Louis as from Washington is too obvious to be overlooked.

Center Fire on Roosevelt It has become clear, meanwhile, that the motto of the Union Party might properly be "We Hate Roosevelt." The four leaders of the party—Lemke, Father Coughlin, Dr. Townsend and Gerald Smith—have that in common. Presumably they all know, as everyone else does, that they are taking far more votes from Roosevelt than from Landon. It is commonly believed that the Union Party has received seeking Landon's election. And the four must be quite aware that the only possible constructive or destructive thing they can do this year is to take enough votes away from Roosevelt in one or more states to give Lemke plurality.

The possibility that Lemke, Coughlin, Townsend and Smith may elect Landon will have to be kept in mind, as long as one admits that the election is likely to be close.

Glass Appeared by White House

Leaving the White House after a "political fence mending" session with President Roosevelt, Senator Carter Glass of Virginia looks a bit disgruntled still. One of the New Deal's severest critics, he affirmed his intention to vote for Roosevelt, however.

Coughlin Censored But Isn't Stopped

American Bishop Explains Formal Attitude of Vatican in Rome

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Bishop Gallagher said Thursday that Vatican authorities were displeased at Rev. Charles E. Coughlin for calling President Roosevelt a "liar" and "traitor," for which he later apologized—but had done nothing to restrain his political activities.

hanging around Manhattan for any length of time, which means that there won't be much opportunity for buying him a drink. The Prince doesn't regret that. In fact, he was at the verge of pointing out that although the Almanac De Gotha has not yet capitulated to his title in the Roman off court, the Chamber of Commerce of Fredericksburg, Va., lists a John Adams—Farm Supervisor—Rappahannock Valley.

Fashion Undertaking Nor is the Prince a cheap skate, under any alias. Fredericksburg was the boyhood home of George Washington. It was in the New York office of the country's swankiest fashion magazine where Paris cables on new fall fashions have been keeping things in a hum lately.

The telephone rang and the call was switched to the information department. "I want to ask a question," an unknown voice explained, "about a problem of dress."

The call was transferred again, this time to the fashion department. The sub-editor who should have answered was out and a busy executive, happening by, picked up the telephone. "I want to ask a question," the voice repeated, "about a problem of dress."

"What is it you want to know?" the executive asked alertly.

"I wonder," said the voice over the wire, "if you can tell me how to dress a corpse."

Sweet Home

The Rev. W. E. Sherrill of Benton is conducting a Baptist revival at this place this week. Brag Adams and wife of Troy, Ark., were church visitors here over the week end.

Sorry to report this Mrs. S. E. Yarberry is on the sick list.

Mrs. W. L. McDougald and daughter Letha, have returned after spending a pleasant week with relatives and friends near Smackover and in El Dorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Purdie and daughter, Miss Mildred and Mrs. Melba Parker of Prescott were here Sunday guests of Mrs. Purdie's sister, Mrs. M. H. Montgomery and Mrs. Montgomery.

Sunday August 31, a family reunion long to be remembered by those present and delightfully enjoyed was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Montgomery. Thirty-one immediate relatives were present, some coming from quite a distance to enjoy once more the happiness of being together again and enjoy sweet memories of olden times when they were together around the old family fireside. At the noon hour a most delicious and bountiful lunch was served. Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Montgomery of Foreman; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Montgomery and Mrs. Billie Lynn, Lomesa, Texas; Lee Montgomery and daughter Lucy Lee, Prescott; Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Dillard and daughters, Beatrice and Bertie Marie, Hobbs, N. M.; Henry Dillard, Hobbs, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Beauchamp and son Houston, Texarkana, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bonds, Blevins; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Bonds and children, Lavelle and Lucile, Blevins; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Bonds and daughter Teresa Ann, Blevins; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Montgomery and children, Earl B. and Eula Mae.

Mrs. Hugh Nolen and family attended church here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Smith and children were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Yarberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Smith and daughter of Prescott were church visitors here Sunday.

Hinton

The birthday dinner and family reunion was well attended at Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cox Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Cox, Miss Maxine and little sister Louise Smith were Sunday dinner guests at Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ellege. William Rogers was the Sunday dinner guest of Doyle Hamilton. Miss Doris Hamilton left last Saturday for Little Rock to attend college.

The birthday party and shower in honor of little Norma Morrow and Irene Abner at Mrs. G. W. Camp's last Thursday was well attended.

Gurteen Cox was the Sunday dinner guest of Rosa Lee Cagle.

Mrs. George Ellege and children were dinner guests of Mrs. R. E. Adams Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Oliver Foster and children were the dinner guests at Mrs. G. W. Camp's Thursday.

Mrs. Agnes Camp of Stamps was the Saturday night guest of her aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Camp, and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grant called in the morning. We are asking friends to come to Sunday school and bring some one with you every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The young people have organized an Epworth League at this place every Sunday night. Come and bring your friends.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
